A GLANCE BACK AT THE PAST

Arkansas State College was established as Arkansas A. & M. College under Act 100 of the Acts of 1909. Governor George W. Donaghey signed this act which authorized the establishment of four schools of agriculture to be located near the geographical centers of the four quarters of the state.

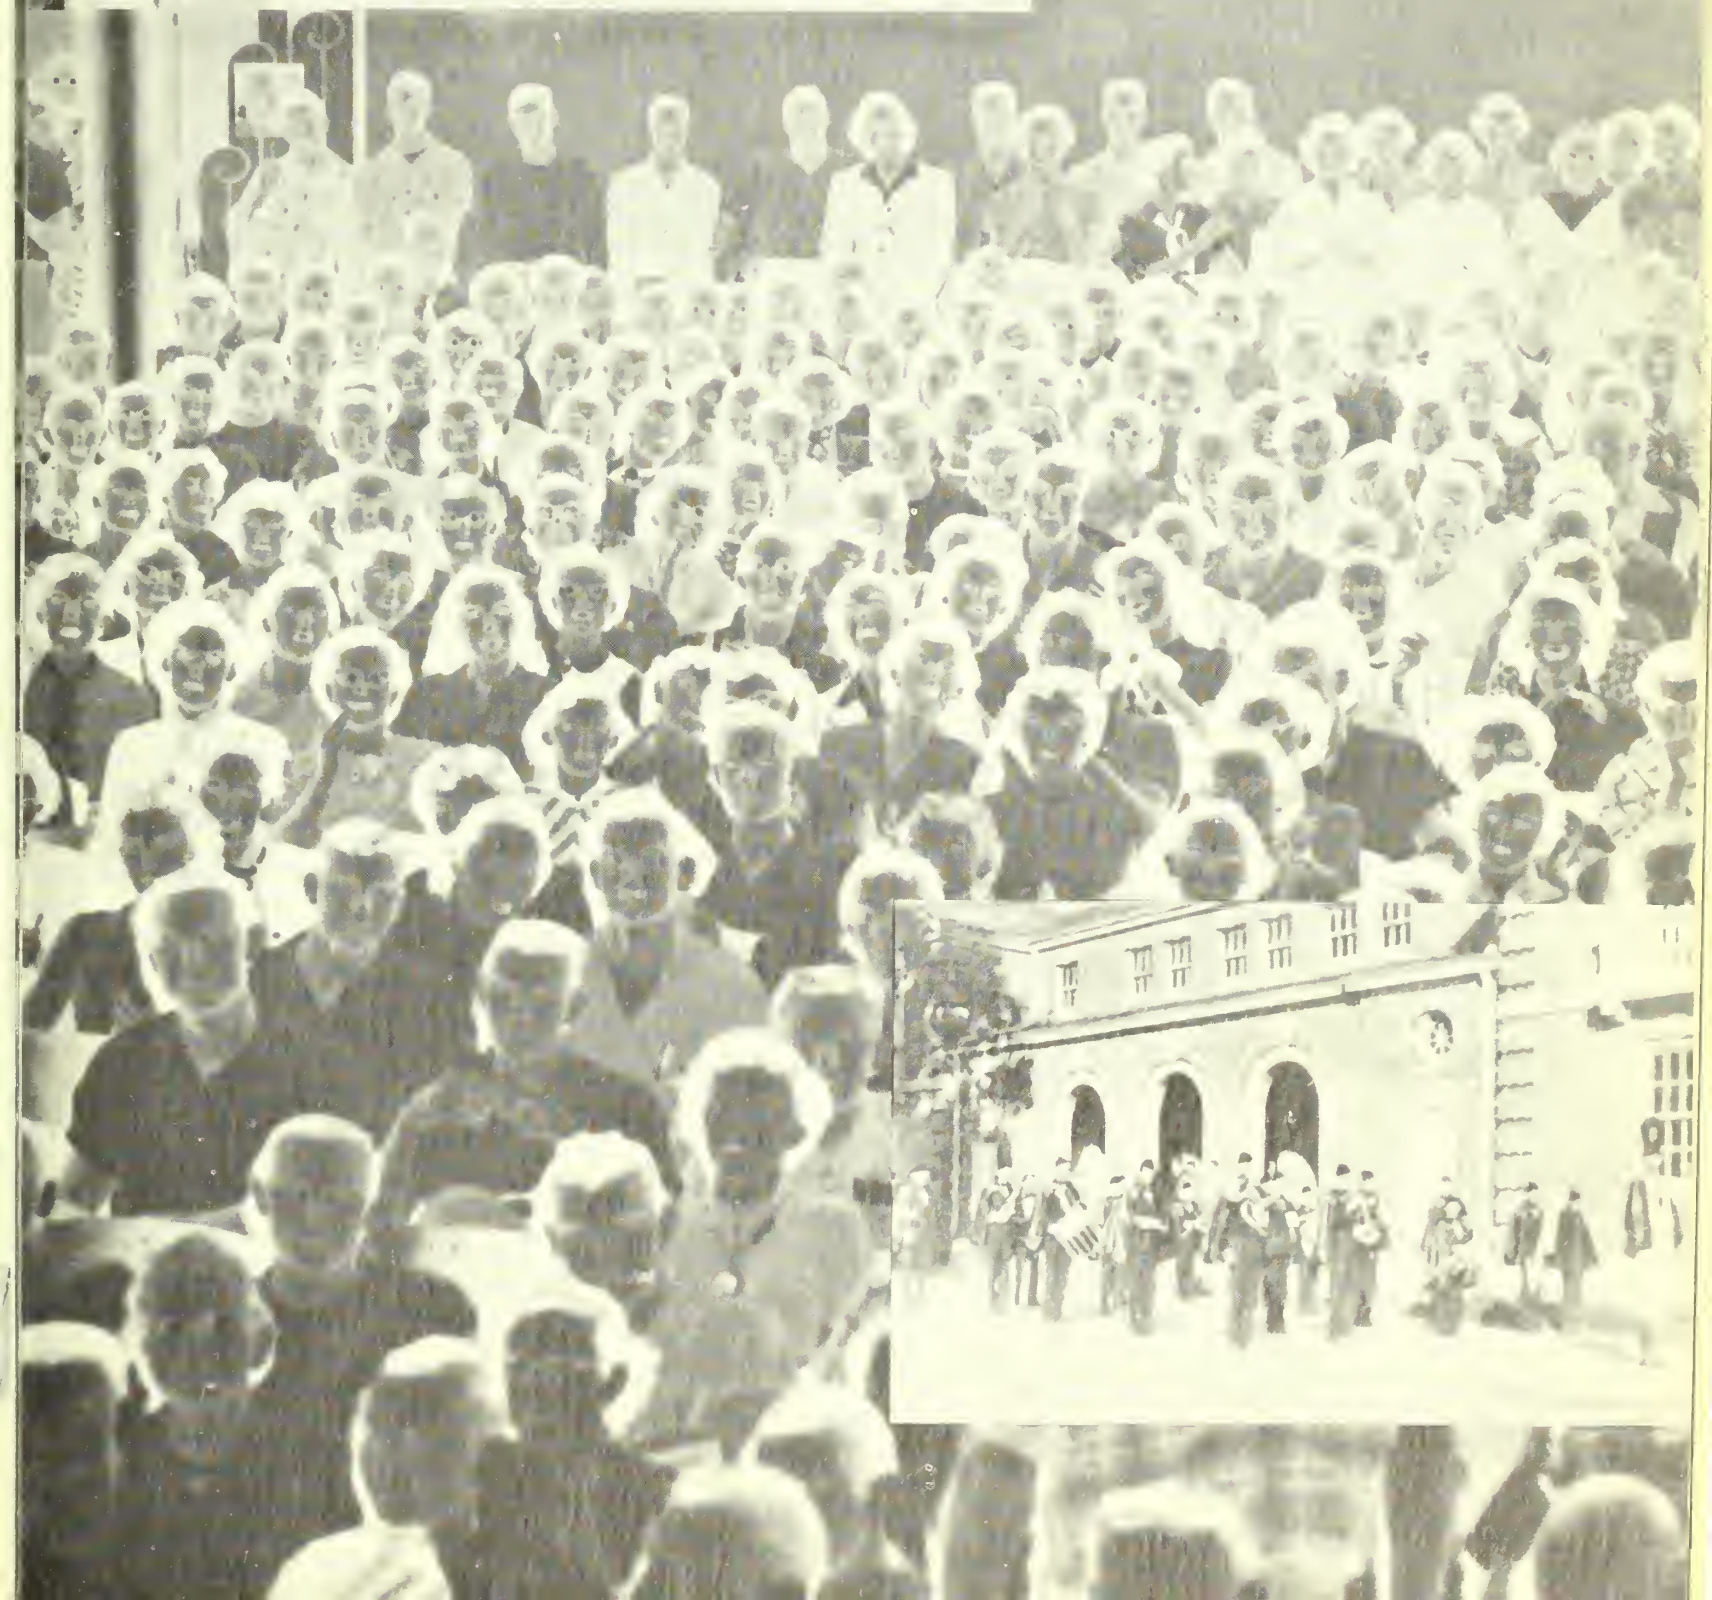

The College opened its first year with an enrollment of 189 students. Classes were held in business buildings in downtown Jonesboro while an Administration Building was being constructed. Two private homes were leased as dormitories.

During the next quarter of a century, the College grew steadily, and in 1929 a new building program was inaugurated. Throughout the early nineteen hundreds and during the flapper era, State's "vamps" and "shieks" pursued various campus activities, such as building homecoming floats and playing in the band as shown in front of the old Administration Building.

This building burned in 1931; and through the efforts of the Board of Trustees, the present Administration Building was erected at a cost of $350,000.

THE YEAR

1954

State's phenomenal growth continues. Today over ten times as many students are enrolled as were enrolled during the College's first year.

The College has outgrown itself several times over. In 1930 two more years of work was added; in 1933 this work was recognized by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and the institution became a standard arts college.

Among the highlights of the year were . . . the establishment of the Ford Foundation's General Education Program . . . the increase of coffee prices, to 15 cents a cup in some places . . . the selection of Mary Ann Donaldson as Homecoming Queen . . . juke boxes also hit by inflation: a dime to hear Eh Cumpari . . . with the signing of the Korean armistice, a new influx of veterans helped to establish a record enrollment . . . women's fashions decreed that hemlines come up . . . "Ramey", Jack Farris' first novel, was published . . . Easter egg colors dominated hair fashions . . . David Taylor was elected city alderman . . . women's hair styles went back to the flaming twenties, and men's went to the flat-top . . . new equipment was added in many departments of the College . . . shades of the flapper era as waistlines drop . . . seating capacity of the gym is increased, and the Arkansas Class "A" High School Basketball Tourney draws a full house . . .

This is a friendly school, and it is a genuine friendliness—not merely a show put on for someone's benefit. Visitors to the campus are often surprised to find students speaking to them as they walk across the well-kept lawns.

Students are principally from Arkansas and southeast Missouri, but a cosmopolitan air is added by a sprinkling of students from all over the United States and several foreign countries. Crowded conditions are the rule now, but the . . .

... new dormitories, now under construction, will enable the students to live with more comfort.

Arkansas State College is at present the second largest—and fastest growing—college in the state, surpassed in enrollment only by Arkansas AM&N and the University.

Enrollment has increased by leaps and bounds during the past few years; and, if the present rate of growth continues, it may become the largest school in the state within the next decade.

The administration is wide awake to educational changes, and obsolete courses are dropped and new ones added whenever they are needed. These curricula changes keep State in the forefront of educational developments, with an eye always on the future. The College doesn't follow new trends in education; it initiates them.

This progressive attitude is present not only in the administration, but in the student body as well. Here at State, we are taught to think and act as free individuals, not as if we were the mass-produced products of a single intellectual mold. We are taught to work toward a better future for ourselves, our alma mater, our country, and mankind.

A FIRST YEAR MAN LOOKS

AT ARKANSAS STATE

At first everything seemed a kaliedescope of confusion with registration and schedules, and my first time away from home gave a feeling of inconsolable loneliness—which was only increased by the friendly greetings of upperclassmen.

Then I began to attend classes and fell into a routine which only becomes more pleasant as time passes. Of course, there is still a pang of loneliness now and then, but I can always realize that I am working toward a goal—learning and developing myself into a better person; fitting myself to live with other people to our mutual benefit; and gaining an understanding of the problems which will confront me.

As a first year man at State, I can only measure the future by the present. I see around me innumerable indications of a bright future, both for the College and for me; I know that every accomplishment of mine helps to make Arkansas State College a better institution, and that every advancement of the College benefits me personally—now and in the future.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

We are extremely proud to present The Indian to you. It represents a pictorial review of the year's activities.

This has been a banner year for Arkansas State College. It is our sincere desire that this publication will complement the fine works accomplished by the student body and faculty. The real college spirit of progress and positive growth is evident everywhere.

The student body is the most important group on any campus, and I am happy to say that you have shown such real progress and developed such an attitude of cooperation that we are truly proud that we had the privilege of being a part of this great educational program.

Arkansas State College is a vital part in the life of each and every one of you and as such its obligations and responsibilities are varied and many. With your continued goodwill and success this College will continue to grow in size and prestige to be excelled by none.

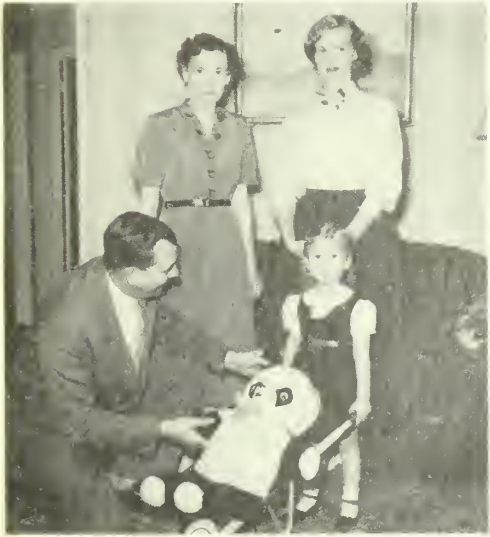

You are a fine group of students, and we hope in the years to come as you look back at the activity of this year that you will always have a satisfactory feeling of a job well done.

May you all enjoy health, wealth and success, and may you always be a credit to your Alma Mater.

Sincerely,

Carl R. Pring

DEAN'S MESSAGE

A distinctive pride is held in the continuing quality as well as numbers of Arkansas State College Graduates. This conviction is shared by those evaluating the services they render. Society realistically expects of college graduates intelligence, qualities of leadership, abilities to effectively utilize educational experiences, possession of an unwavering faith, and unquestionable integrity. To the class of 1954 rightly belongs the recognition for these qualities and potential services.

A. S. C. 19—Abilene Christian 7—With Little All-American Richie Voit sparking the Arkansas State Indians, they romped to an easy 19-7 victory over Abilene Christian College here at Kays Field on Sept 26.

Voit scored the first touchdown on a dash around right end. The kick for the extra point went wide. Voit's next touchdown was scored from the one-yard line through left guard just before the end of the half. In the last quarter, Danny Spensieri intercepted a Leon Fry pass and returned it some 60 yards. Bobby Spann, ASC quarterback, booted the extra point. Fry ran an A-State punt back 65 yards for Abilene Christian's only Td. He also kicked the extra point.

Emporia thus became the second straight conference champions of 1952 to fall before the Indians. Statistics bear out the Indians supremacy over the Hornets, who played inspired ball in the first half but faded out quickly in the last.

Rain or shine, victory or defeat, on home field or visiting, our cheerleaders have helped carry the fighting Indian spirit wherever the team played always encouraging the rooters and the team when the going was tough—always leading the cheers when victorious—always keeping up “the old pep”, it may be truthfully said that seldom has A. S. C. seen such hard-working cheerleaders, loyal supporters, or more able couriers of good will than head cheerleader Bob Brown, Mary Ann Alvey, Arda Tomlinson, June Disinger, Bob Kittrell, Beverly Jones, and Modine Wilson.

A. S. C. 49—Southern State 0—Coach England's Indians, having their only Arkansas opponent of the season as Homecoming foes, rolled up their largest scoring total of the year in clobbering Southern State's Muleriders, defending Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference champs, 49-0.

Arkansas State relied on a perfectly balanced scoring attack to build up the lopsided margin. The seven touchdowns were made by seven different players, with the bulk of the Redskins' scoring being done by reserves.

First-string ends Danny Spensieri and Ronnie Allen caught touchdown passes thrown by Bobby Spann and Larry Wilson. Rudy Wagner, the starting fullback, added another six-pointer on a one-yard plunge. The other four TDs were accounted for by four reserve backs—Harvey Lee Hill, Paul Stovall, Manuel Vidal and Joe Armenio.

A. S. C. 20—Memphis State 0—Rated no better than two-touchdown underdogs against this powerful small-college eleven, the Indians surprised everybody but themselves as they came through with their best performance of the season to upend the highly-touted Tigers 20-0.

The Indians scored the first time they got their hands on the ball, early in the first quarter. Paul Stovall, a reserve halfback, got the touchdown on an eight-yard ramble and Bobby Spann converted to give the Tribe a 7-0 advantage, enough, as it turned out, for the victory.

But just for insurance, Stovall added a second touchdown near the middle of the third period and Richie Woit, the Tribe's number one scorer, tallied another in the fourth quarter. Stovall's sweep came on a one-yard sweep wide around left end and Woit's came on a two-yard buck. Ness Sechrest booted the extra point after the last touchdown to complete the final score.

State received the kickoff and was forced to punt. The Eagles threatened. The Indians first break came after a punting duel. Gene Skora recovered a fumble on Tech's 32 yard line. In the second half Richie Woit scored the first touchdown. Bobby Spann and end Dan Spensieri teamed up for the Indians' second score. The Eagles ran the kickoff back for a touchdown ending the game.

TANGERINE BOWL

A. S. C. 7—East Texas 7—Arkansas State College, for the fourth time in three years played another post-season football bowl game. The game was hard fought. We kicked off to East Texas and held them. After the ball had changed hands a few times, Bobby Spann dropped back and let a beautiful pass drop into the hands of Jim Turley for the first score of the ball game. Ness Sechrest booted the ball through the uprights for the extra point and State led 7-0. In the last quarter, East Texas started a 75 yard drive that resulted in a touchdown and the 7-7 tie was a tribute to both teams.

ORGANIZATIONS

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

Pat Simpkins, President of Student Government Association

With the beginning of the 1953-54 school year early in September, the Student Senate was on hand to welcome the largest freshman class in the history of Arkansas State College.

After registering and election of officers of the freshman class had been fulfilled, attention was turned to Homecoming. Committees were formed to take care of the various duties concerned with homecoming such as the election and crowning of the Queen, the parade, welcoming of the alumni, and the dance.

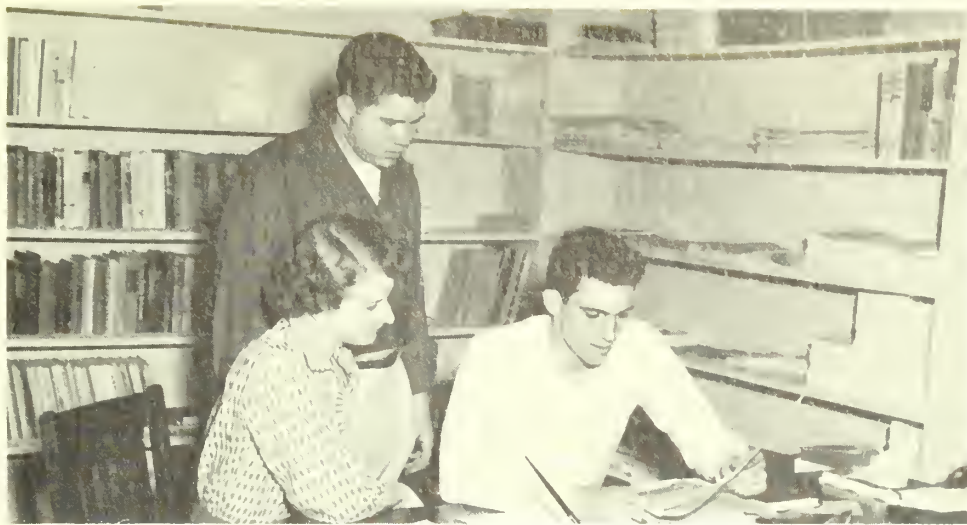

There was hard work for all to put such a successful homecoming over and with everyone working in complete harmony even the minor details were taken into consideration. A smashing victory over Southern State was an assurance that this homecoming had everything to make a happy week-end for the ones to whom it was dedicated, The Alumni of Arkansas State College.

The SGA of Arkansas State College takes an active part in promoting interest in school activities. They were selected to act as chairman for the discussion on "How To Promote Student Interest in School Activities" at the spring meeting of the State SGA held at Arkansas State Teachers College.

As this school year comes to an end and the new student government takes over its obligations for the betterment of Arkansas State College, we extend to them our best wishes for the coming year.

For the excellent cooperation and participation of all students, faculty, and college officials, we take this opportunity to thank you for a most successful and enjoyable 1953-54.

The editor and business manager of the 1954 INDIAN are firmly convinced that their jobs are designed for people who have little enough sense to run for campus offices and need to be taught a lesson.

From the first week in September, when the book was first laid out in Camden, until the first week in April when it was finally put to bed, the job was a rat race. After that, the editor and business manager could usually be found in Trumann or Paragould, or points beyond, recuperating. Effervescent youths (?), after seven months trying to put an annual together they became cynics. Froth oozed from the corners of their mouths. They lost weight and, unused to sleep, became insomniacs. On top of that, a year in college was lost due to flunked courses.

But the situation could have been much worse. The editor and business manager could have died from overwork—if they weren't so lazy—and then they wouldn't have had the chance to wish they had the jobs again. This ghastly possibility was averted by a few faithful students who worked hard and long at jobs for which they received practically no return.

For the 1954 INDIAN, the editor and business manager are forever indebted to the following people who tramped around the campus picking up information and taking pictures, who filed, typed monotonous lists of names, and did odd jobs to save Hopper and Watson from becoming raving maniacs:

To Jane Damiano, who willingly gave of her time and new Buick so Watson could top all previous advertisements; to George Luper who talked several hometown merchants into buying advertising space; to the Design Class for their skillful art work on the division pages; to Marianne Armstrong and Betty Adkins who made this job a more pleasant task with their wit and souped-up production; to Don Schaefer and Don Hiatt for taking so many of the pictures appearing in the book—and to Jimmy Caldwell for holding the flash bulbs at times; to Buddy Lamb who really gave first class advice; to Beverly Jones who could always find time to do her share of the work; to Jeannette Queen and Bill Kelly who stayed in labs most of the time but were always ready to give with their best when called upon; to Beth Cooper who almost drove us beyond that fine line of sanity, but this annual would have been impossible without her contributions; to Gloria Gamblin and Patty Gayle who gave no trouble whatsoever—they were always willing to work; to Robert Roberts and Joe Atkinson who composed the five page dedication; to the Printing Department for introducing us to Mr. Bernhard—what would we have done without him; and to others whose duties were wide, varied and unprintable.

Collecting a year full of memories and putting them into the form of THE INDIAN has been the job of the yearbook staff. Making it up, however, has taken the cooperation of everyone, for without them there would be no memories, no book.

It has been hard work, but it has been fun. THE INDIAN belongs to every student. You have given us the ideas, the memories, the pictures, the words that go to make it up. In return, we trust we have given you something worthy of State, in hopes that many years later it will serve as a pleasant memory of college days. It is the staff's contribution to you personally. We hope you enjoy it.
